

CABARET

Michelle "BAGGAS" Baginski

Presents

78% Honesty

Multi-skilled visual and performing artist, Michelle "Baggas" Baginski has recently returned from her "Off The Medication Tour" (formerly known as the "On The Medication Tour") and looks calm enough to engage openly with audiences who are willing and brave enough to listen to songs and look at pictures.

Armed with her guitar, Baggas will be delighted to bring her own special kind of cabaret, what she calls a 'kookaret', to Melbourne, after a two-week season at the Adelaide Fringe Festival in 2008.

Forget high-tech audio-visuals. Expect unique paintings and drawings presented live by the artist. Shrug away any desires for parodies of pop songs. Instead lend your ears to original music with fresh, intriguing lyrics.

Some may think that a comedy stage where visual art merges with live music and performance is a fantastic and creative feast for the mind, but this comedy stage will not be half as deliciously colourful as what will be going on inside Baggas' head during the show. And let's not even mention her heart.

For those who like art without the beret, music without the band, and sincerity without the bullshit, 78% Honesty will be heartfelt and nude, without anyone's clothes coming off.

This is a show about Baggas engaging truthfully with the audience. Almost.
