GREATNESS THRUST UPON THEM

Written and directed by Lorin Clarke.

Greatness Thrust Upon Them is a play about people changing history by accident.

Like the bodyguard who took a bullet for Ronald Reagan, or the directors of the Vienna Art Gallery realising perhaps they shouldn't have advised Hitler against an artistic career, insignificant people make history all the time. This show is about them.

Following the success of For We Are Young and Free (Golden Gibbo Nominee, 2007), Standing There Productions presents its second comedy festival show by award-winning writer/director Lorin Clarke.

"Go for Clarke's quick wit." The Age

"Nice characterisations and character conflicts and dialogue which positively bounces along." Playwright, Sir Alan Ayckbourn.

"A stylishly put together show... For those who are able to enjoy comedy and possibly think about important issues simultaneously." The Groggy Squirrel.

Credits for Standing There Productions include For We Are Young And Free (MICF 2007), the award-winning People Watching (2003), and numerous short films and videos. Lorin Clarke and producer Rita Walsh have combined credits in TV, film and radio (including Kath and Kim, The Librarians and Tough Love).
