Deborah Frances-White's How Almost Anyone Can Become an Overnight Celebrity (UK)

At last year's Comedy Festival Deborah changed the romantic lives of Melburnians forever with her sell out show "How to Get Almost Anyone to Want to Sleep With You". Hundreds of Festival-goers became sexier, flirtier and wrote to tell Deborah their success stories of new-found attractiveness, dates and even relationships.

This year Deborah is back at Trades Hall with a brand new show – How Almost Anyone Can Become an Overnight Celebrity.

It used to be that celebrities were born of talent...or crime. But with the birth of reality TV, celebrity has become a lottery. Are you holding a winning ticket without realising it? We might all hate celebrity culture but would you really resist the urge to step into the limelight if you could? Deborah has been gathering the secrets of celebrity and now she can show you how. But is that glitzy door one you really want to open? And what's the price you'd have to pay?

Deborah Frances-White is a British comedian, writer and personal skills expert who has played three sellout seasons at the Edinburgh Festival. She is delighted to be premiering her new show at the Melbourne International Comedy Festival.

"Very funny" Jennifer Saunders (Ab Fab) - A Celebrity

"Intelligent, hilarious, instructional" The Age
