Give That! - A Telethon for Kids without Disabilities

Fresh from a fabulous run at the 2008 Melbourne Fringe Festival, comedy newbies Kelly Fastuca and Justin Cicero bring their very serious and worthy telethon to MICF 2009!

Give That!: a Telethon for Kids without Disabilities is a fast-paced romp purely designed to boost the ailing careers of its horrendous hosts.

Where most hard-working charities look after the sick and hungry, Give That! aims to help those poor children of leafy suburbia who desperately wanted an iPhone for Christmas, but ended up with a Nano.

"IT'S JUST NOT GOOD ENOUGH MUMMY!"

Even in times of economic downturn, our children deserve the best. And it is with this in mind that our two hosts aim to bring in record-breaking donations from the Australian public while propping up their own failing fortunes.

A light-hearted comedy starring washed up talents exploiting poor little rich kids, Give That! is ahead of its time and is sure to make you tighten your purse strings and laugh out loud. Written by Kelly Fastuca and Justin Cicero, directed by Brad Oakes and produced by the team behind 'Waiting...', and 'Playing You', Give That! is sure to be the must-watch telethon of the 2009 Comedy Festival.
