The Soft Toy Mafia

If you ever needed to wonder why background checks are compulsory within children's TV, wonder no longer. The cast of Freddy Funky Fingers & The Fluffless Followers TV Hour are walking the very thin crayoned line between rock stars and toddlers' idols.

With their very first performance at a Comedy Festival, in the time honoured Trades Hall, the cast of The Soft Toy Mafia bring an original and unabashed brand of character in a show that's sure to make you laugh, or cry, at the state of the overcrowded toddler TV market of today.

We are guided through a live show, both on and off screen, as the personal lives of each of the characters slowly disintegrate into a national disaster for parents around the country. Drugs, sex and sea monkeys thrust the show from G-rated to XXX in between baby wipe advertisements.

Having worked together in various capacities over many years, the entire cast come together to create a show of miniature proportions and childish ideas infused with a splash of colour and awkwardness. A must see, if not just for a laugh...
